

DEMOCRATIC SPLIT OVER TARIFF SEEN

REGIMENT TO MAKE CAMP IN GOELLER FIELD

U. S. Army Troops Will Stay
In City Over Night Following Maneuvers.

Circleville will have a martial appearance on Monday night, May 27, when the Tenth U. S. Infantry, Fort Thomas, Ky., will camp here.

Captain W. L. Bartley, supply officer of the regiment was in Circleville Thursday making arrangements for the camp, which will be the first on a seven day hike from the Jupiter school house, two miles east of Shadysville, to Fort Thomas.

They will go from Kentucky to Jupiter by truck.

The pasture field of John Goeller on N. Pickaway-st will be used for the camp.

The regiment will be marching to home quarters after participating in the air-ground maneuvers of the United States army in Ohio from May 20 to May 26.

TO DEFEND COLUMBUS

The Tenth Infantry will be the troops employed by the Red army in defending its capital, Columbus, from the Blue army which will attack from the west. The troops will be used to move the panels which will indicate the defensive movements of the Red army. The ground assault of the Blue army will be conducted by the Eleventh U. S. Infantry from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Captain Bartley said that while Circleville probably will not see any troop movements during the maneuvers, it will likely see several aerial combats because Circleville is an important strategic point in the Red army defense. It will probably be assailed from the air by planes from Wright field, Dayton, and defended by planes from Norton field, Columbus.

ROTARIAN IN COMMAND

The Tenth regiment on its visit to Circleville will be commanded by Colonel W. H. Waldron, who is past president of the Rotary club at Huntington, W. Va.

The regiment will leave its encampment at Jupiter school house with full field equipment. Its train of 30 trucks will arrive here about 10 a. m. Monday and the marching soldiers will reach the city about noon, going immediately into camp.

The regiment will leave here about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning for Chillicothe, where it will camp that night. Wednesday's camp will be at Hillsboro.

BANSHEE TOPIC FOR STUDENTS

Grade Pupils Will Participate In Contest Sponsored By High School.

What is the banshee? What does it do? Such questions have been continually asked ever since the seniors chose "The Call of the Banshee" as their class play.

Pupils of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades have been asked to write a composition of not less than fifty words about it. Each pupil in the three sixth grades may write on the life appearance, or meaning of "Banshee". HEAD OF HOME FACES DEFICIT

Findings Totalling $1,521.82
Made Against Madison-
Co. Official.

COLUMBUS, O., May 9.—Claims that R. W. Thomas, as superintendent of the Madison-co home, owed $1,521.82 as receipts from sales of livestock and produce raised at the home, and that Thomas or his wife as rationer of the home, "have been signing the names of different employees for years" on payrolls are contained in a report made public by State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy.

The report covers an investigation by State Examiner F. P. Householder, of records of the home for the past nine years. The probe, it was stated, was in response to complaints by Madison-co taxpayers relative to disposition of funds received from the sale of the livestock and produce.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas received a combined salary of $1,500 a year. The report credits Thomas with having $1,036.75 of the $1,521.82 alleged shortage into the Madison-co treasury on April 8 last.

Householder declared that records of the sales of livestock and produce at the home were kept.

"The only evidence of the amount sold is taken from the auditor's pay record," the report declared.

PERSON M. E. CHURCH RAZED BY NOON FIRE

Flames, of Unknown Origin,
Destroys Structure—Loss
Estimated At $500.

Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed the Methodist church at Pherson at 11 a. m., Thursday and damaged the adjacent home of Mrs. Mina McLaughlin.

Herman Pherson, proprietor of the general store at Pherson, discovered the fire, which had enveloped the vestibule and was climbing to the belfry.

The loss of the church is estimated at $4,500, of which $2,200 is covered by insurance. The home of Mrs. Mina McLaughlin, who resided west of the church, was damaged to the extent of $75 by the flames.

A bucket brigade formed by Williamsport firemen and neighbors saved the home of Herman Pherson and that of Mrs. McLaughlin from being destroyed. An outbuilding on the Pherson property was damaged.

The Pherson church, a frame structure, was built 40 years ago. It seated 300 persons. Rev. Rhodes, of Darbyville, was minister of the church which was used regularly for services.

BEQUEST FOR WIDOW DENIED OTHER'S WIFE

Court of Appeals Holds Will
Doesn't Apply In Case
of Remarriage.

Burial expenses and a monument provided in a will for a widow does not apply to another man's wife, according to a decision handed down by the court of appeals in the case of Homer A. Lee, et al, against C. A. Leist as executor of the estate of the late John A. Lee.

The opinion, which was written by Judge Lemert, with Judges Houck and Mauck concurring, also held that the Pickaway-co common pleas court erred in ordering a distribution of the Lee estate on the grounds that such an order is the exclusive jurisdiction of the probate court.

The widow of John Lee, married George K. Lagore after Lee's death and she has since died. The executor of the Lee estate appealed the decision of the common pleas court.

The appellate court held First—That the testator of the will, John A. Lee, did not provide for the funeral expenses of the wife of George W. Lagore and the executor is not authorized to reimburse Lagore for expenditures incurred by him in that behalf.

Second—That the testator did not contemplate that his widow should be buried by a surviving husband in a cemetery other than the one in which the testator was to be buried and did not provide for a monument for the widow of George W. Lagore in such other cemetery, and the executor is without authority to erect such monument.

Third—The character of the estate devised to Homer Amos Lee and to Arthur H. Lee is not clearly fixed by the will.

Homer A. and Arthur H. Lee are adopted sons of the testator and their share of the estate was to be held in trust until they reached the age of 21.

MIX CHARGED WITH INCOME TAX FRAUD

LOS ANGELES, CAL., May 9.—Tom Mix, cowboy hero of screen, charged with alleged income tax frauds by indictments returned here by the federal grand jury as an innocent party to the asserted irregularities, it was stated here today by Claude I. Parker, income tax counselor who represents the film star.

Mix, who is now making a tour in the east, is claimed to have the government a total of $102,735.68 he failed to pay during the years of 1925, 1926 and 1927. Joint charges of conspiracy to defraud are made against Mix, J. Marjorie Berger, Hollywood tax expert, and John D. Hill, formerly Mix's press agent.

BOY BANDIT CAREERS NIPPED IN BUD

Three sawed-off shotguns, two blackjacks, two revolvers, 200 rounds of ammunition was the list of "hardware" which Chicago police took from Clarence Zima, 15, and Otto Pepper, 16 (seated at table), when they were captured. Judge Immenhausen, Herbert Wetzel, Ralph J. Sharp, prosecutors, and Lieut. William Reed are questioning the boys. They stated they drove to Chicago from Grand Haven, Mich.

Claims Machine Age Kills Genius In United States

NEW YORK, May 9.—The machine civilization of America is killing the genius of its youth, according to Dr. B. Glueck, eminent New-York psychiatrist, who has returned from Germany aboard the liner Berlin.

"Europe believes that American industry is going into the control of a small clique due to the reports of mergers and consolidations," said Dr. Glueck. "I think they are right in their belief and I believe it is taking away the opportunity of the active young American to make the best of himself. He is simply becoming part of a huge machine and the potential leadership qualities of our youth is being subverted."

Dr. Glueck said that Germany was forging ahead of the United States in its study of child mental hygiene "making its youth less foolishly aggressive and more international minded."

"America is too busy making money to bother about anything else," said Dr. Glueck. "When our unprecedented natural resources are exhausted perhaps we will get down to fundamentals. America's problem now is to know how to use its leisure and wealth."

FIRE MENACES MAIN HIGHWAY

Chief Perry-Co Thoroughfare Threatened By Underground Conflagration

NEW STRAITSVILLE, O., May 9.—With deliberate swiftness workmen labored today to reinforce a section of the main highway here, which has been undermined by Perry-co's perennial peril, the great burning mine of Shawnee.

This same fire threatened last month to destroy the high school here. The school lay directly in the path of the smoldering inferno. After feverish efforts it was checked.

Warning signs on the highway today gave mute tribute to its devastating character. At one place on the roadway, the brick pavement has sunk in at least two feet.

Dangers undergone by persons unacquainted with the district wandering through it were exemplified last week when a horse straying on a hillside, dropped through a light shell of earth into a burning rut and was burned to death.

ELBOW DISLOCATED

Dorothy May Arledge, 15 daughter of Mrs. William Arledge, Cincinnati, suffered a dislocated right elbow when she fell off a pile of lumber at her home Wednesday afternoon. Dr. H. C. Allen dressed the injury.

ASKS SUPPORT FOR NEW BILL

Executive Secretary of League
to Modify Dry Law Visits
Circleville.

R. R. Wright, executive secretary of the Ohio division of the Federal Dispensary-Tax Reduction League, Inc., was in Circleville Thursday visiting prominent residents of the city and explaining to them the purposes of his organization which seeks to modify the federal prohibition law.

Mr. Wright stated that a local committee will be named and a Pickaway-co organization formed. The organization work has already started in Fairfield and Hocking cos. and in the near future a general chairman of the Eleventh congressional district will be named.

Support is being sought for a bill which has already been introduced into the national House of Representatives providing for establishment of governor operated liquor dispensaries.

The objects of the Federal Dispensary-Tax Reduction League according to its charter, are:

1.—To abolish bootlegging and other crimes against the revenue laws of the Federal and state governments.

2.—To war against the return of the saloon in any form.

3.—To seek to have the law modified to include the punishment of the purchaser of illegal booze as well as its makers and purveyors.

4.—To work for adoption of a Federal Dispensary system under which liquors may be distributed on a strictly controlled rationing plan.

5.—To press for amendments to the 18th Amendment and Volstead Act to permit the controlled manufacture and sale of wines, beers and liquors for strictly home consumption in states desiring such a thing.

6.—To surround the whole business with enforceable restrictions and subject it to high taxes, half to go to the Federal government and half to the state so that the plan would pay for itself instead of adding tens of millions of dollars to the already heavy load taxpayers are called on to bear.

ASSAULT ON PUPIL DENIED BY TEACHER

COLUMBUS, O., May 9.—Lee Dill, school teacher at Groveport, near here, who is accused of striking 15-year-old Thomas Cox because the boy "looked too hard at him," pleaded not guilty when arraigned at Groveport on assault and battery charges.

The charges were filed by the boy's father, Dill, when arraigned, alleged that young Cox was "insolent."

Gene Learns To Play Chess From George B. Shaw

ROME, May 9.—Having met and vanquished all comers in the ring, Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world, is trying his hand at a different game of skill.

He has taken up chess, it was learned here today, and is whiling away many an hour worrying over knights and pawns with no less formidable an adversary than Geo. Bernard Shaw.

The ex-champion of fistdom and the great writer are almost constant companions on the island of Brione, a sleepy spot in the Adriatic, where Tunney has repaired with his bride far away from the madding throng.

Shaw, whom Tunney has declared himself as admiring more than any other living celebrity, is also vacationing at Brione, and the pair, messages from the island declared, have found it enjoyable to pit their skill against one another over the chessboard.

Shaw is invariably the victor, it appears, although Gene is proving himself a game loser.

PLAN OPPOSED BY CHURCHILL

Young's Reparation Scheme
Not Acceptable To England, He Declares.

LONDON, May 9.—The new reparation proposals contained in the Young plan are not acceptable to the British government and "could in no circumstances be entertained," Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill announced in the house of commons this afternoon.

PARIS, May 9.—Although protests against the downward revision of reparation apportionments under the Young plan continued to pile up today in the French Belgian and British press, there were outward indications that the terms would eventually be accepted with possibly some modifications.

Even if the Young plan is accepted by the experts, it must be approved by the allied governments before it is effective.

Under the Young plan England would receive only sufficient funds to pay the British war debt to the United States. This is the basis of the protests by the British newspapers.

The Belgian protest is based upon the fact that under the Young plan Belgium would have her original reparation claim cut nearly in half or down to 64,000,000 marks. In addition Belgium would receive payments to cover debts. France's annuities would be slashed below the figure which the French had previously said was their minimum.

SOUTHERNERS ARE FAVORING HIGHER RATES

Measure Reported Favorably
To House By Committee
After Party Vote.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A split in the Democratic ranks of house developed today over the new Hawley-Smoot tariff bill as Republican leaders claimed progress in their effort to overcome widespread dissatisfaction among their own members.

While some Democrats were assailing the new tariff bill as an "outrageous" piece of legislation, other Democrats from Florida, Louisiana and Texas found much in the bill to bring joy to their constituents.

The bill was favorably reported out by the ways and means committee today on a strict party vote, 15 to 9, with one Democrat, Hill of Washington, voting "present."

Chairman Hawley and strong Republican majority would allow no debate on it in committee. The Republicans actively supported it, and the Democrats, with the exception of Hill, just as actively opposed it.

Heavy increases in duties to protect Florida tropical fruits and vegetables, Louisiana's sugar and the wool, and the fruit and vegetable interests of Texas, gave promise of many Democratic votes for the new bill.

Democratic members of the ways and means committee, who were denied a part in the making of the bill, canvassed the situation in a lengthy meeting but failed to reach an agreement on a course of action.

While Reps. Ehl (D) of Tennessee, Rainey (D) of Kansas, Collier (D) of Mississippi, and condemning the bill—except praise of some of the agricultural schedules—Rep. Garber (D) of Texas, minority leader, declined to comment on the rates, and concentrated his fire upon the administrative changes lodging greater tariff making power in the hands of the president.

Democratic members for the congested districts of the East were unanimous in their condemnation of the committee's proposal to raise the world tariff on sugar from 2.40 to 3 cents a pound. They also saw in many other agricultural increases an added cost of living for the people in the East's great cities.

HARD JOB AHEAD

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Democratic-Insurgent coalition, which handed President Hoover his first legislative defeat by writing the export debenture bill into the new farm bill in the senate, faced a superhuman task today in the drive to enact this form of relief into law.

A hostile house awaited the bill, which probably will be enacted finally by the senate early next week. Then, if the coalition should win as surprising a victory in the house as it did in the senate, the bill would face an almost certain presidential veto.

The coalition won an astonishing victory in the senate. The final vote approving the debenture was 47 to 44—a total of 91 votes being cast. The vote, in which every senator was recorded, was without precedent in recent years and indicated the tremendous political importance attached to it by leaders of the two major parties.

DENIES STARTING BRICK PLANT FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., May 9.—Ivan Pickering, 22, Ohio State penitentiary convict, who, upon his capture by Hamilton police yesterday, confessed that he and two other prisoners, one of them from Marietta, had deliberately set fire to the Junction City brick plant as a means of escape, today had retracted that story after being questioned by Warden P. E. Thomas, of the penal institution.

The fire, which cost the lives of between nine and 14 other convicts occurred last October.

BEQUEST FOR WIDOW DENIED OTHER'S WIFE

Court of Appeals Holds Will
Doesn't Apply In Case
of Remarriage.

Burial expenses and a monument provided in a will for a widow does not apply to another man's wife, according to a decision handed down by the court of appeals in the case of Homer A. Lee, et al, against C. A. Leist as executor of the estate of the late John A. Lee.

The opinion, which was written by Judge Lemert, with Judges Houck and Mauck concurring, also held that the Pickaway-co common pleas court erred in ordering a distribution of the Lee estate on the grounds that such an order is the exclusive jurisdiction of the probate court.

The widow of John Lee, married George K. Lagore after Lee's death and she has since died. The executor of the Lee estate appealed the decision of the common pleas court.

The appellate court held: First—That the testator of the will, John A. Lee, did not provide for the funeral expenses of the wife of George W. Lagore and the executor is not authorized to reimburse Lagore for expenditures incurred by him in that behalf.

Second—That the testator did not contemplate that his widow should be buried by a surviving husband in a cemetery other than the one in which the testator was to be buried and did not provide for a monument for the widow of George W. Lagore in such other cemetery, and the executor is without authority to erect such monument.

Third—The character of the estate devised to Homer Amos Lee and to Arthur H. Lee is not clearly fixed by the will.

Homer A. and Arthur H. Lee are adopted sons of the testator and their share of the estate was to be held in trust until they reached the age of 21.

ground Conflagration

NEW STRAITSVILLE, O., May 9.—With deliberate swiftness, workmen labored today to reinforce a section of the main highway here, which has been undermined by Perry-co's perennial peril, the great burning mine of Shawnee.

This same fire threatened last month to destroy the high school here. The school lay directly in the path of the smoldering inferno. After feverish efforts, it was checked.

Warning signs on the highway today gave mute tribute to its devastating character. At one place in the roadway, the brick pavement has sunk in at least two feet.

Dangers undergone by persons unacquainted with the district wandering through it, were exemplified last week, when a horse, grazing on a hillside, dropped through a light shell of earth into a burning pit and was burned to death.

ASKS SUPPORT FOR NEW BILL

Executive Secretary of League
to Modify Dry Law Visits
Circleville.

R. R. Wright, executive secretary of the Ohio division of the Federal Dispensary-Tax Reduction League, Inc., was in Circleville Thursday visiting prominent residents of the city and explaining to them the purposes of his organization which seeks to modify the federal prohibition law.

Mr. Wright stated that a local committee will be named and a Pickaway-co organization formed. The organization work has already started in Fairfield and Hocking cos. and in the near future a general chairman of the Eleventh congressional district will be named.

Support is being sought for a bill which has already been introduced into the national House of Representatives providing for the establishment of governor operated liquor dispensaries.

The objects of the Federal Dispensary-Tax Reduction League according to its chapter, are:

1.—To abolish bootlegging and other crimes against the revenue laws of the Federal and state governments.

2.—To war against the return of the saloon in any form.

3.—To seek to have the law modified to include the punishment of the purchaser of illegal booze as well as its makers and purveyors.

4.—To work for adoption of a Federal Dispensary system under which liquors may be distributed on a strictly controlled rationing plan.

5.—To press for amendments to the 18th Amendment and Volstead Act to permit the controlled manufacture and sale of wines, beers and liquors for strictly home consumption in states desiring such a thing.

6.—To surround the whole business with enforceable restrictions and subject it to high taxes, half to go to the Federal government and half to the state, so that the plan would pay for itself instead of adding tens of millions of dollars to the already heavy load taxpayers are called on to bear.

ASSAULT ON PUPIL DENIED BY TEACHER

COLUMBUS, O., May 9.—Lee Dill, school teacher at Groveport, near here, who allegedly struck 15-year-old Theodore Cox, because the boy supposedly "looked too hard at him," pleaded not guilty when arraigned at Groveport on assault and battery charges.

The charges were filed by the boy's father. Dill, when arraigned, alleged that young Cox was "insolent."

Gene Learns To Play Chess From George B. Shaw

ROME, May 9.—Having met and vanquished all comers in the ring, Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world, is trying his hand at a different game of skill.

He has taken up chess, it was learned here today, and is willing away many an hour worrying over knights and pawns with no less formidable an adversary than Geo. Bernard Shaw.

The ex-champion of fistdom and the great writer are almost constant companions on the island of Brione, a sleepy spot in the Adriatic, where Tunney has repaired with his bride far away from the madling throng.

Shaw, whom Tunney has declared himself as admiring more than any other living celebrity, is also vacationing at Brione, and the pair, messages from the island declared, have found it enjoyable to pit their skill against one another over the chessboard.

Shaw is invariably the victor, it appears, although Gene is proving himself a game loser.

PLAN OPPOSED BY CHURCHILL

Young's Reparation Scheme
Not Acceptable To England, He Declares.

LONDON, May 9.—The new reparations proposals contained in the Young plan are not acceptable to the British government and "could in no circumstances be entertained," Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill announced in the house of commons this afternoon.

PARIS, May 9.—Although protests against the downward revision of reparations apportionments under the Young plan continued to pile up today in the French, Belgian and British press, there were outward indications that the terms would eventually be accepted with possibly some modifications.

Even if the Young plan is accepted by the experts, it must be approved by the allied governments before it is effective.

Under the Young plan England would receive only sufficient funds to pay the British war debt to the United States. This is the basis of the protests by the British newspapers.

The Belgian protest is based upon the fact that, under the Young plan, Belgium would have her original reparations claim cut nearly in half, or down to 64,000,000 marks. In addition Belgium would receive payments to cover debts.

France's annuities would be slashed below the figure which the French had previously said was their minimum.

SOUTHERNERS ARE FAVORING HIGHER RATES

Measure Reported Favorably
To House By Committee
After Party Vote.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A split in the Democratic ranks of house developed today over the new Hawley-Smoot tariff bill as Republican leaders claimed progress in their effort to overcome widespread dissatisfaction among their own members.

While some Democrats were sailing the new tariff bill as an "outrageous" piece of legislation, other Democrats from Florida, Louisiana and Texas found much in the bill to bring joy to their constituents.

The bill was favorably reported out by the ways and means committee today on a strict party vote, 15 to 9, with one Democrat, Hill of Washington, voting "present."

Chairman Hawley and the strong Republican majority would allow no debate on it in committee. The Republicans solidly supported it, and the Democrats, with the exception of Hill, just as solidly opposed it.

Heavy increases in duties to protect Florida tropical fruits and vegetables, Louisiana's sugar and the wool, and the fruit and vegetable interests of Texas, gave promise of many Democratic votes for the new bill.

Democratic members of the ways and means committee, who were denied a part in the making of the bill, canvassed the situation in a lengthy meeting but failed to reach an agreement on a course of action.

While Reps. Hull (D) of Tennessee, Rainey (D) of Illinois and Collier (D) of Mississippi were condemning the bill—except for praise of some of the agricultural schedules—Rep. Garner (D) of Texas, minority leader, declined to comment on the rates, and concentrated his fire upon the administrative changes lodging greater tariff making power in the hands of the president.

Democratic members for the congested districts of the East were unanimous in their condemnation of the committee's proposal to raise the world tariff on sugar from 2.40 to 3 cents a pound. They also saw in many other agricultural increases an added cost of living for the people in the East's great cities.

HARD JOB AHEAD

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The Democratic-Insurgent coalition, which handed President Hoover his first legislative defeat by writing the export debenture plan into the new farm bill in the senate, faced a superhuman task today in the drive to enact this form of relief into law.

A hostile house awaited the bill, which probably will be enacted finally by the senate early next week. Then, if the coalition should win as surprising a victory in the house as it did in the senate, the bill would face an almost certain presidential veto.

The coalition won an astonishing victory in the senate. The senate. The final vote approving the debenture was 47 to 44—a total of 91 votes being cast. The vote, in which every senator was recorded, was without precedent in recent years and indicated the tremendous political importance attached to it by leaders of the two major parties.

DENIES STARTING BRICK PLANT FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., May 9.—Ivan Pickering, 22, Ohio State penitentiary convict, who, upon his capture by Hamilton police yesterday, confessed that he and two other prisoners, one of them from Marietta, had deliberately set fire to the Junction City Brick plant as a means of escape, today had retracted that story after being questioned by Warden P. E. Thomas, of the penal institution.

The fire, which cost the lives of between nine and 14 other convicts, occurred last October.

When questioned by Warden Thomas, Pickering repudiated his confession and said that he had told it to Hamilton police to escape being beaten by detectives, which he charged, used him roughly in obtaining his statement.

JOHN GILBERT IN ELOPEMENT

Screen Lover To Marry Ina Claire — Constance Talmadge Weds Again.

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., May 9—Jack Gilbert, one of filmdom's most popular lovers, and Ina Claire, musical comedy star, have eloped and were on their way by train today to Las Vegas, Nev., where they planned to marry.

By wedding in Las Vegas they will save the three-day wait required by California law.

Miss Claire arrived here two months ago from New York to star in a musical comedy talkie.

BEVERLY HILLS, CAL., May 9—Constance Talmadge, former film comedienne, and Townsend Netcher, millionaire Chicago merchant, were on their honeymoon today following their marriage at the home of Buster Keaton here. The latter's wife, Natalie, is a sister of the bride.

Rev. James Lash, of the Hollywood Congregational church performed the ceremony. Norma Talmadge and Mrs. Keaton were matrons of honor. Buster Keaton gave away the bride. Walter Lohman was best man.

The wedding was a simple one, attended only by about a score of friends including Mr. and Mrs. George Bancroft, Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon, Gilbert Roland, Mr. and Mrs. Watterson Rothacker, Eugene O'Brien, Frances Marion and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mulhall.

It was Miss Talmadge's third marriage and Netcher's second.

THEATRES

"THE GOLDEN SNARE"
Wallace Beery and Lewis Stone are starred at the Grand theater tonight in "The Golden Snare," a drama staged in the Canadian wilds with two men, a Northwest Mounted police and a clever crook, meeting and waging war over a girl. A. F. B. O. Comedy and Universal are also on the bill.

THRILLING MYSTERY
A beautiful dark-haired girl and a motley assortment of underworld denizens, abetted by more spooky sounds than were ever presented before on the talking screen, were seen and heard at the Cliftona theater last night when "The Hole in the Wall" opened.

Claudette Colbert, as the slender beauty who turns criminal for revenge upon a wealthy woman who had wronged her, was ravishingly lovely in spite of the dire status to which she had fallen in the play.

Edward C. Robinson as "The Fox" who is the "brains" of the band of criminals that preys upon the rich people of the city by fake spiritualistic methods, was a convincing heavy. His part called for a display of suave cunning coupled with a sinister treachery which made it a characterization difficult of portrayal in any other hands.

Further support for Miss Colbert is offered by a veteran cast including Barry Macollum, whose weird "banshee" wail will linger long in the ears of his audience. Donald Meek, Louise Closser Hale, Nelly Savage, Alan Brooks, David Newell, Katherine Emmet and last but not least, Marcia Kagno, a four-year-old tot who is kidnapped in the story and who supplies more than ample "heart-interest" in the picture.

True Friendship
It is essential to true friendship that it be reciprocal. A one-sided attachment can never be called friendship. In the judgment of man kind there is no crime so base as ingratitude toward a friend.—James Cardinal Gibbons.

CHOOSE UNPOLLUTED WATER FOR BATHING

Be Sure that Your Swimming Place is Safe, Urges Dr. Copeland, for Contaminated Water May Cause Skin Infection or Dread Typhoid.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.
United States Senator from New York.

BLESSED is the country boy born near an old swimming pool fed by the waters of an uncontaminated stream. City boys are far less fortunate. They must do their swimming in waters filled with sewage and germs of disease.

I am led to these observations by reason of an article I saw in the newspaper. It was an interview with the Director of Health Education of New York City's Department of Health. He was bemoaning the fact that the harbor waters about New York are badly polluted.

"Each year, with the advent of bathing," he said, "come new cases of eye and ear affections, skin troubles, and worst of all, new typhoid fever cases." Since 1922 and up to the close of 1928, almost 500 cases of typhoid in this city were traced to bathing beaches, beaches proscribed by the Department, in which bathers ignored our warning.

It is too bad that so little attention is given by many persons to the dangers of contaminated waters. Not only are they willing to bathe in these waters, but travelers into the country frequently drink from springs and streams without knowing anything about the purity of the water. In this connection I quote again from the newspaper article about disease in New York City: "And of the 3,448 other typhoid cases, the infection of which was not traceable, there is little doubt that many of them came from bathing in polluted waters."

With the beginning of the bathing season I hope everybody will give heed to the importance of selecting safe places for swimming. It is a dangerous thing to jump into an unknown and unexplored pool. There may be treacherous depths, snags of trees, or submerged rocks. Unless counsel can be taken of somebody familiar with this proposed bathing pool, it should be carefully explored before any dives are taken into the water.

But far more dangerous than the things I have just mentioned, are the possibilities of the presence of germs in the water. To get them into your system may bring severe illness and even death. I am glad that many States and municipalities have passed laws prohibiting the reckless contamination of the water supplies. The other day I saw a man almost frothing from anger because he was not permitted to establish a hazardous industry on the bank of a noble stream; the waters of which were used for drinking purposes by a nearby city. It was a wise law that prevented such an action.

Bathing and swimming are desirable from the standpoint of health. But I beg of you not to go into the water unless you know it is free from contamination.

Fountain Cashes Wine
In the town of Marino in the Roman Campagna there is a fountain which occasionally flows with wine. For an hour in the vintage season of each year the thirsty may freely fill their pitchers.

The custom of free wine is an old one. In the market place near by stands a gigantic basket filled with clusters of grapes, its diameter almost as great as that of a small-town gas tank. The basket belongs to the town, and whatever of its contents is left is made into wine for the free fountain in the following year. Great crowds gather for the celebration.

YOUTH KILLED; OFFICERS HELD

College Student Slain By Dry Agents When He Fails To Halt Auto.

ABINGDON, VA., May 9 — Whipped into being by a storm of indignation, an investigation into the death of J. W. Kendrick, 17, allegedly at the hands of police and sheriff's officers who mistook the youth and two companions for rum-runners, was launched by Sheriff Kays Bordwine, of Washington-co here today.

James McReynolds, assistant chief of police of Abingdon, and Deputy Sheriffs James Crowe and J. P. Worley, are at liberty under $5,000 bail in connection with the shooting while Paul Phelps and Sterling Button, fellow students of Young Kendrick at Emory and Henry college, near here, are held in $500 bond charged with intoxication.

Demand for a searching investigation into the facts surrounding the slaying of Kendrick was voiced today when it was learned that the car in which the three youths were riding at the time of the shooting was devoid of liquor contriband and that the youths had no liquor on their persons.

The three boys were enroute from the college to Bristol, Va., when the officers sighted their car and ordered it to halt, suspecting the occupants of transporting liquor. When the car failed to halt, the men opened fire it was said. Kendrick was struck in the left temple by a bullet and died in the George Ben Johnston hospital here.

"I intend to prosecute this investigation until complete responsibility is fixed for the killing of this young man," declared Sheriff Bordwine, who caused the arrest of the three officers.

Speaker's Wife Involved In Washington Social Whirl

Left, Mrs. Longworth, wife of the Speaker, and Mrs. Gann, on the right, sister of Vice-President Curtis, whose social status is still undetermined.

Mrs. Longworth's Refusal to Attend Meyer's Dinner Renews War

FROM all indications the social war centered around the status of Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice-President Curtis, has apparently broken out anew. The new controversy involves Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the wife of the Speaker of the House of Representatives, in its tangles.

A renewal of the discussion concerning the seating of Mrs. Gann was unexpectedly brought about after invitations had been sent out for a dinner by Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Jr., whose husband had recently retired from the chairmanship of the Federal Loan Board.

Mrs. Longworth, who is a daughter of Theodore Roosevelt, when informed of the seating arrangements, sent her regrets. Mrs. Gann, in turn, when informed of Mrs. Longworth's refusal to attend the dinner, also sent her regrets.

That, as far as can be learned, is the cause of the new outbreak in the social war. Considerable speculation as to why it happened and what will happen further, is heard on every hand in the drawing rooms and clubs throughout Washington.

Of chief interest among such speculation is the seriousness of the situation—a situation having Mrs. Gann, as hostess for the presiding officer of the Senate, on one side, and the wife of the presiding officer of the House of Representatives on the other.

The whole story was given credence by reports which have flowed about Washington ever since the question arose, that the precedence obtained by the diplomatic corps decision would never be permitted Mrs. Gann by some members of official society—particularly by Senatorial ladies.

KILLED, OFFICERS HELD

Large Student Slain By Dry

ABINGDON, VA., May 9 — Slipped into being by a storm of indignation, an investigation into the death of J. W. Kendrick, 17, allegedly at the hands of police and sheriff's officers who mistook the youth and two companions for rum-runners, was launched by Sheriff Kays Bordwine, of Washington-co here today.

Jazzie McReynolds, assistant chief of police of Abingdon, and Deputy Sheriffs James Crowe and J. P. Worley, are at liberty under $5,000 bail in connection with the shooting while Paul Phelps and Sterling Button, fellow students of Young Kendrick at Emory and Henry college, near here, are held in $500 bond charged with intoxication.

Demand for a searching investigation into the facts surrounding the slaying of Kendrick was voiced today when it was learned that the car in which the three youths were riding at the time of the shooting was devoid of liquor contriband and that the youths had no liquor on their persons.

The three boys were enroute from the college to Bristol, Va., when the officers sighted their car and ordered it to halt, suspecting the occupants of transporting liquor. When the car failed to halt, the men opened fire it was said. Kendrick was struck in the left temple by a bullet and died in the George Ben Johnston hospital here.

"I intend to prosecute this investigation until complete responsibility is fixed for the killing of this young man," declared Sheriff Bordwine, who caused the arrest of the three officers.

Speaker's Wife Involved In Washington Social Whirl

Left, Mrs. Longworth, wife of the Speaker, and Mrs. Gann, on the right, sister of Vice-President Curtis, whose social status is still undetermined.

Mrs. Longworth's Refusal to Attend Meyer's Dinner Renews War

FROM all indications the social war centered around the status of Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice-President Curtis, has apparently broken out anew. The new controversy involves Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the wife of the Speaker of the House of Representatives, in its tangles.

A renewal of the discussion concerning the seating of Mrs. Gann was unexpectedly brought about after invitations had been sent out for a dinner by Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Jr., whose husband had recently retired from the chairmanship of the Federal Loan Board.

Mrs. Longworth, who is a daughter of Theodore Roosevelt, when informed of the seating arrangements, sent her regrets. Mrs. Gann, in turn, when informed of Mrs. Longworth's refusal to attend the dinner, also sent her regrets.

That, as far as can be learned, is the cause of the new outbreak in the social war. Considerable speculation as to why it happened and what will happen further, is heard on every hand in the drawing rooms and clubs throughout Washington.

Of chief interest among such speculation is the seriousness of the situation—a situation having Mrs. Gann, as hostess for the presiding officer of the Senate, on one side, and the wife of the presiding officer of the House of Representatives on the other.

The whole story was given credence by reports which have flowed about Washington ever since the question arose, that the precedence obtained by the diplomatic corps decision would never be permitted. Mrs. Gann by some members of official society—particularly by Senatorial ladies.

Latent heat performs a great office in nature. Not less does latent joy in life. JOHN GILBERT IN ELOPEMENT

Screen Lover To Marry Ina Claire — Constance Talmadge Weds Again.

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., May 9.—Jack Gilbert, one of filmdom's most popular lovers, and Ina Claire, musical comedy star, have eloped and were on their way by train today to Las Vegas, Nev., where they planned to marry.

By wedding in Las Vegas they will save the three-day wait required by California law.

Miss Claire arrived here two months ago from New York to star in a musical comedy talkie.

BEVERLY HILLS, CAL., May 9.—Constance Talmadge, former film comedienne, and Townsend Netcher, millionaire Chicago merchant, were on their honeymoon today following their marriage at the home of Buster Keaton here.

The wedding was a simple one, attended only by about a score of friends including Mr. and Mrs. George Bancroft, Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon, Gilbert Roland, Mr. and Mrs. Watterson Rothaker, Eugene O'Brien, Frances Marion and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Muhlhall.

It was Miss Talmadge's third marriage and Netcher's second.

THEATRES

"THE GOLDEN SNARE"
Wallace Beery and Lewis Stone are starred at the Grand theater tonight in "The Golden Snare," a drama staged in the Canadian wilds with two men, a Northwest Mounted police and a clever crook, meeting and waging war over a girl. A F. B. O. Comedy and Universal are also on the bill.

THRILLING MYSTERY

A beautiful dark-haired girl and a motley assortment of underworld denizens, abetted by more spooky sounds than were ever presented before on the talking screen, were seen and heard at the Clifton theater last night when "The Hole in the Wall" opened.

Claudette Colbert, as the slender beauty who turns criminal for revenge upon a wealthy woman who had wronged her, was ravishingly lovely in spite of the dire status to which she had fallen in the play.

Edward C. Robinson as "The Fox" who is the "brains" of the band of criminals that preys upon the rich people of the city by fake spiritualistic methods, was a convincing heavy. His part called for a display of suave cunning coupled with a sinister treachery which made it a characterization difficult of portrayal in any other hands.

Further support for Miss Colbert is offered by a veteran cast including Barry Macollum, whose weird "banshee" wail will linger long in the ears of his audience. Donald Meek, Louise Closser Hale, Nelly Savage, Alan Brooks, David Newell, Katherine Emmet and last but not least, Marcia Kagno, a four-year-old tot who is kidnapped in the story and who supplies more than ample "heart-interest" in the picture.

True Friendship
It is essential to true friendship that it be reciprocal. A one-sided attachment can never be called friendship. In the judgment of mankind there is no crime so base as ingratitude toward a friend.—James Cardinal Gibbons.

Be Sure that Your Swimming Place is Safe, Urges Dr. Copeland, for Contaminated Water May Cause Skin Infection or Dread Typhoid.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.
United States Senator from New York.

BLESSED is the country boy born near an old swimming pool fed by the waters of an uncontaminated stream. City boys are far less fortunate. They must do their swimming in waters filled with sewage and germs of disease.

I am led to these observations by reason of an article I saw in the newspaper. It was an interview with the Director of Health Education of New York City's Department of Health. He was bemoaning the fact that the harbor waters about New York are badly polluted.

"Each year, with the advent of bathing," he said, "come new cases of eye and ear afflictions, skin troubles, and worst of all, new typhoid fever cases. Since 1922 and up to the close of 1928, almost 500 cases of typhoid in this city were traced to bathing beaches, beaches proscribed by the Department, in which bathers ignored our warning."

It is too bad that so little attention is given by many persons to the dangers of contaminated waters. Not only are they willing to bathe in these waters, but travelers into the country frequently drink from springs and streams without knowing anything about the purity of the water. In this connection I quote again from the newspaper article about disease in New York City. "And of the 3,448 other typhoid cases, the infection of which was not traceable, there is little doubt that many of them came from bathing in polluted waters."

With the beginning of the bathing season I hope everybody will give heed to the importance of selecting safe places for swimming. It is a dangerous thing to jump into an unknown and unexplored pool. There may be treacherous depths, snags of trees, or submerged rocks. Unless counsel can be taken of somebody familiar with this proposed bathing pool, it should be carefully explored before any dives are taken into the water.

But far more dangerous than the things I have just mentioned, are the possibilities of the presence of germs in the water. To get them into your system may bring severe illness and even death.

I am glad that many States and municipalities have passed laws prohibiting the reckless contamination of the water supplies. The other day I saw a man almost freezing from anger because he was not permitted to establish a hazardous industry on the bank of a noble stream; the waters of which were used for drinking purposes by a nearby city. It was a wise law that prevented such an action.

Bathing and swimming are desirable from the standpoint of health. But I beg of you not to go into the water unless you know it is free from contamination.

Thirteen Races All Saw
American Colors
Lead the Way

SEVENTY-EIGHT years ago the schooner yacht "America" had sailed across the ocean and being off Britain at the time of the race for the Royal Yacht Squadron cup sailed off the Isle of Wight decided to compete. This was the original "America's Cup" race for the trophy won at that race has since been named for the first winner.

The "America" won by so wide a margin that when the Queen of England, watching the race from a spectator yacht, was asked what yacht was next, she replied, "There is no second." The cup won at this time still reposes in the New York Yacht Club.

The deed of gift provides stringent regulations regarding challenges which shall give ten months' notice naming the days for the proposed races and the name of the owner of the challenging boat which must sail across the ocean to compete.

Thirteen challenges have been made of which Sir Thomas Lipton has made the last four with his series of "Shamrocks." In 1920 the challenge for which was given in 1914, but postponed by the World War. Charles Francis Adams, now Secretary of the Navy, called the famous old "Resolute," the American defender. Races had preceded this last one in 1870, 1871, 1876, 1881, 1885, 1886, 1887, 1889, 1895, 1899, 1901 and 1902.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON

Now it seems probable that Sir Thomas will try his luck again in 1936 with a new challenger named "Shamrock V." You certainly have to give the big tea man credit for trying mighty hard. Nothing would bring this ardent yachtsman more satisfaction than bringing the famous cup back to England, but ill luck has dogged his attempts.

HOYT'S COMPOUND MADE ME "NEW"

DECLARES 20 YEAR RESIDENT
OF SPRINGFIELD, OHIO:
SAYS HE IS A CHANGED
PERSON.

MR. ORAN ADAMS

"I am a WELL MAN since taking the Hoyt's Compound and I want to endorse it to all who suffer," said Mr. Adams. "I am 45 years of age and have lived in Springfield, Ohio for the past 20 years. During the last seven years I have been a great sufferer of the stomach and kidney trouble which seemed to grow worse all the time even though I had spent hundreds of dollars trying different kinds of advertised medicines without any results whatever. My stomach always felt as though a large hard lump was inside of it and every time I ate anything it seemed as though the lump would become larger and more painful. Stomach gas would form and push upward against my heart and at times I was hardly able to get my breath. All of my friends and acquaintances know that I have suffered terribly from this affliction and also with bowel trouble as I was continually having pains across my back and shoulders. After trying all of these other medicines without relief I was skeptical about trying anything else but finally when I kept reading endorsements from local people for the Hoyt's Compound, I went and got it and started taking it myself. The first bottle gave me so much relief that I knew at last that I had found a cure and I am still taking it and getting better every day. Every organ in my body seems to be functioning perfectly and my entire system feels better all over. I am able to work without becoming worn out and tired as before. I am now able to eat anything without having those dreadful pains and I can truthfully say that Hoyt's Compound has proved to be the greatest medicine of any I have ever taken. I am now a WELL MAN and want to endorse it to everyone who suffers."

Hoyt's Compound is now being explained every day here in this city at Wilder's Drug Store, and is also sold by leading druggists everywhere.

BIBLE THOUGHT

A NEEDED PRAYER—O Lord, I have heard thy speech, and was afraid: O Lord, revive thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known; in the midst of the years make known; in wrath remember mercy.—Habakkuk 3:2.

PRAYER—"Revive Thy work, O Lord, Thy mighty arm make Thy people hear."

FARMERS ARE GREATEST HUNTERS

The farmer more, perhaps, than the city man, is a hunter, for the man on a farm has more opportunities to hunt, as frequently all he need do is pick up a gun and walk a few hundred yards from the farmhouse to find game. Because of that fact, it is likely that most of the shot-guns owned in the United States are in the hands of rural dwellers.

Further, taking the country as a whole it is on farms that most of the game animals are to be found. But, of course, state-owned lands provide for the enjoyment of shooting by thousands of gunners. Usually, shooting is better on public lands than on the average farm. However, the farm can and should be as good a place for small game, especially birds, as a state-owned tract. Still, the official and unofficial reports disclose that the mortality rate of game on farms is excessively high, owing to lack of control of "vermin"—as the natural enemies of game are called. Absence of necessary cover is also a factor both in mortality of game and in failure to attract wild life to farms. This condition is largely due to the destruction of natural cover by farming operations. These observations are based on the composite opinion of sportsmen in various parts of the country.

Many are of the belief that the situation could be greatly improved by educational efforts along the line of instruction as to the kinds of cover required for various species of game. Concerning the subject of cover, the Department of Agriculture Farmers' Bulletin No. 1521 states:

"The favorite resorts of upland game fowl have long been known as coverts, no doubt on account of their being admirably adapted to covering or concealing the birds. Such coverts are usually characterized by an abundance of low but dense and stiff or thorny shrubbery, together with luxuriant growths of grasses and weeds. These plants supply also an important part of the food of the birds."

DETROIT'S BRIGHTEST

When the Binet and other intelligence tests given to Detroit's six-year-old schoolboys were checked over it was discovered that Jimmy Phillips had a mental age of 11 years and 9 months. Jimmy's mother denies that Jimmy was subjected to any special preliminary training. Travel has helped to make him alert. Early introduction to a good encyclopedia rounded out the job. If you can afford it, get one of the high grade children's encyclopedias now on the market. It will help you and the child, too, to answer the questions a normal youngster has on the tip of his tongue.

Dyers Making Use of Tree Once Condemned

Every country or section of a country as it grows casts about for more and more resources that can be converted into marketable finished products. The American South has taken the common hedge apple tree, known as the Osage orange, the box wood or the holly tree. A row of these trees compose what farmers call a hedge fence. In the old days its roots were smoked by boys to whom tobacco was forbidden. Otherwise, the hedge tree, with its manifold fruit of large green balls, was unpopular. Farmers condemned it because when used as a hedge, it would not hold their cows and hogs. Motorists cursed it because it shut off their view at crossroads. The hedge tree appeared to be of little use. A few factories bought it to make wagon spokes and felloes.

A new dye, however, is dawning for the hedge apple tree. It is being turned into the hoppers of some of the country's large dye factories. This is developing into a real industry in Texas and Oklahoma. The hedge apple tree is also excellent material for telephone cross arms and insulator pins. What is left of the tree is utilized in the making of fertilizer. Long ago the Indians made boxes of this wood.

The Rule

"It seems very strange to me that you editors refuse articles when written on both sides of the paper," remarked Bacon. "Now, there's Kipling; he wrote on both sides of the Atlantic, and yet editors did not reject his stuff."

SERVANT GIRL DUPES GERMANS

Victims Almost Insisted on Being Tricked, "Princess" Claims.

Erfurt, Germany.—This little city is having a good laugh at the expense of hundreds of persons who have been fooled by a German servant girl posing as the Princess Margaret, morganatic wife of Kronprinz William, who defrauded many of them out of thousands of dollars, to say nothing of clothes and jewelry. The girl, Martha Barth, got off with a light sentence when she told the judge how those she tricked were so insistent upon being tricked, preferring to believe she was actually the princess attempting to conceal her plight as much as possible.

Martha Barth came to Erfurt about two years ago. She is the daughter of a forester of noble birth, Baron Von Preuss-Brandenstein. Her mother is a peasant woman who lived with her in Erfurt. Since 1921 Martha has spent two years in prison on three separate convictions—once for forgery and twice for theft.

Sorry for Hohenzollerns.

They had been but a few days in Erfurt and Martha visited the millinery shop of the Herold sisters. She bought a cheap hat and chartered with the two elderly spinsters. They talked about the hard times, about the good old days when Thuringia had a ruling dynasty.

Three days later Frau Barth again appeared in the little store of the Herold sisters. Mathilde again mentioned the kalser, and Martha remarked—very discreetly—that she was a close relative of the former emperor.

Next day, however, she again went to the store, and when the sisters pressed her to tell of her relationship with the imperial family she gave them the story, asking the sisters not to tell anybody about it because she was incognito in Erfurt.

She was the daughter of the Princess Sophie, sister of the kalser and queen of Greece, she told the two sisters. She lived in Sofia, where she met the German kronprinz, who was visiting the Bulgarian capital.

A love match ensued, and she came to Berlin with the kronprinz, who wished to marry her. The kalser was furious, but the empress wanted her son to be happy and arranged a secret marriage. It was a morganatic marriage, of course, which had to be annulled later in order to allow the kronprinz to contract a new marriage for reasons of state. But they still loved each other and met secretly rather often. The poor kronprinz had no money and was unable to obtain any. Therefore she, his former wife, was trying to help him.

Sisters Are Thrilled.

The spinsters listened to this romantic story with rapture. Would her highness allow them to help her and to collect some money for his imperial highness? Oh, they would be glad to do it!

But Martha refused very severely and very decidedly. The next day her highness came back and condescended to accept 500 marks for the kronprinz. But she stipulated no one must know about it.

But the sisters could not withstand the temptation, and they told their friends about the Princess Margaret. Before long hundreds of people shared the so-called secret. Well-to-do people came to Martha and offered financial aid, which was graciously accepted.

At length the Herold sisters parted with all their savings and Martha became so well known in the city of Erfurt that she felt exposure to be imminent. She wrote from Berlin to the Herold sisters, telling them that in a few days everything would be straightened out and that the money which they had expended for the kronprinz would be returned to them in full. The two sisters, overjoyed, showed the letter to a lawyer, who promptly communicated with the police and told the enable spinsters that they had been fooled.

Two weeks later Martha Barth, alias Princess Margaret of Prussia, morganatic wife of Kronprinz William and daughter of the queen of Greece, was arrested in Berlin in the cow stable of the former imperial estate Bellevue, where she worked as a servant girl. To the last she remained faithful to the imperial dynasty!

The court sentenced Martha to two years in prison.

Scientist 75, Begins to Make Great Mirror

Lynn, Mass.—Dr. Elihu Thomson, one of the country's foremost inventors, at the age of seventy-five has undertaken one of the world's most scientific tasks, the making of a telescope reflector as big as the floor of a large dwelling room, that must have a surface perfectly proportioned to one millionth of an inch. The great mirror is for the 20-inch telescope of California Institute of Technology. It will have twice the diameter of the present largest instrument. It will be fused quartz, a material less affected by contraction and expansion than any other known substance. Perfection of the great mirror is expected to require several years.

Daphne by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

AT seventeen Daphne Haines finds herself the victim of a hard, calculating stepmother who had married her father for money. Crystal, the second Mrs. Haines' beautiful daughter, becomes the darling of the household, usurping Daphne's place in her father's affections. The two women tolerate Daphne until Ralph McKevitt, a wealthy young man who had been calling upon Crystal, discovers Daphne in the garden one lovely Spring day, and admires her. Crystal indignantly resents this, resorts to tears and temperament, but is finally placated when her mother promises to "fix everything."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER II.

IT was the most heavenly morning. Different from all the other mornings. Brighter, sweeter, more freshly drenched in dew. The very birds praised it. "Why—you're beautiful!" He'd said that to her—Daphne—whom nobody had ever found beautiful. Crystal shouldn't care, she had so many. . . . I'll ask Father for a new dress, and I'll borrow a little of Crystal's lip salve, and the next time he comes I'll be worth looking at.

With a little sigh of sheer happiness she reached under the pillow for the creased and yellowed bit of newspaper that was her best picture of him. It wasn't very clear, it might have been any boy in football clothes, with broad shoulders, and fair, tousled hair. But she knew it was Ralph. She laid it lovingly against her cheek, and sank back into the pillows just for a minute. . . .

When she opened her eyes again the bright sun was pouring in the windows, water was roaring in the bathroom at the end of the hall—it was late!

"Why didn't you call me?" she cried, as she ran into the kitchen five minutes later. "I just woke up!"

Mrs. Haines, frying bacon and eggs at the range, didn't look up but her red face turned a shade redder and she said in a high, quivering voice, "Because I'm tired calling you. I've done my best. Nobody can say I didn't do all I could. But I'm through. I'm through—" Her voice broke.

"But Mama—I don't understand."

"All right. I'm not asking anything from you. I don't want any help. My head's splitting and Crystal's sick, but never mind—"

"She's been having a fight with Crystal," Daphne thought, without much reason. The mysterious arguments which went on behind closed doors between Mrs. Haines and her daughter always ended in red eyes and tantrums, and she had learned to take them the way the orchardists take unseasonal rain and wind, calamity to be borne with.

Mrs. Haines screamed in her ear. "Flies coming in. I've got enough to do without chasing flies—I—"

"But I've got the screen door shut!" Daphne cried indignantly. "There aren't any coming in. You—you make me sick!"

"Is that the way you talk to your mother?" And there was Father, pompous and bristling with a before-breakfast frown. "My mush, Daphne. And the milk. And in the future, be a little more considerate."

"Never mind," Mrs. Haines broke in tearfully. "I'm used to it. I don't expect anything different. I can bear it. I'm only a stepmother. It's only when she turns on Crystal that it hurts. Then—" She clutched her side dramatically. "Then a knife turns in me. To think that after all these years—so much love—" She sank in a chair and buried her face in her hands.

Instantly father was bending over her, his short, thick arms around her fat neck. "Adelina—darling—you aren't well. Last night—I knew you weren't—you mustn't worry so—you mustn't—"

The eggs were burning. Daphne swept them off the fire, her young mouth set in a hard, red line. This was worse than the fighting, listening to Father talk that way, with that queer throb in his voice and his eyes so bright and beseeching.

"I know." He moved away reluctantly. Reached for his hat, hanging on the hook behind the door.

"And I'll have to get a few things for the house!" she called after him. "And a few things for Crystal—she's gotta look as well as the others, poor kid—"

"Oh, that's all right," the old man mumbled benevolently. "I want you to be happy, Adelina. Adelina, you are happy with me? You don't think I'm just an old man Adelina—with money?"

For a moment his eyes seemed to search hers, suspiciously, but she kissed him soundly and wagged a coquettish finger at him. "Silly boy!"

So he went away, content.

Daphne was washing the break-

"She's been having a fight with Crystal," Daphne thought.

I don't know why you didn't let me notice you usually do. I—I don't know what's the matter with everybody. Oh, I don't know what's going to become of me—I don't—I don't—"

They let her rush out of the kitchen, down the back stairs, into the yard.

"Poor little woman." He patted her hand fatuously. "You're too sensitive. Let her alone, that's all. You can't do anything with that young one—regular wildcat. Got young from her mother." He stood up with a little grunt—he felt his years in the mornings—sixty-six—getting old, getting old. . . .

"When I think of what you must have suffered with her mother. Well, I'm quick. I saw it the first time I set eyes on her. I said, 'There's a cold one,' I said, and a hard one. She don't understand that man—"

"Bless you, Adelina, bless you!" Old Man Haines' eyes were misty. "Well, no use crying over spilt milk." His Adelina cut in hastily, pulling away her hand and starting to stack the dishes briskly. "By the way, Abner, I want to give a few little parties for Crystal this Summer. We ought to let her have young folks, and you enjoy them, too, and the way the young girls take to you—" She laughed, and poked him archly in the ribs—"You old shark, you!"

"Well, you don't have to worry, Adelina, I'll always be true to you, little woman—always—"

She drew away again, sharply. "If you're going to San Jose you'll have to hurry, you'll have to get alone—" fast dishes, hurrying because it was almost school time. The sleeves of her white middie blouse were rolled up, disclosing her slender, milk white arms. "Not really scrupulous at all," Mrs. Haines thought bitterly, sipping her third cup of coffee at the kitchen table. Daphne's mouth was hard, but her eyes were dark and dreaming. "Mooning over McKevitt," the stepmother thought shrewdly. "Planning when she's going to see him again—and a lot of good that's going to do you, Miss!" A spasm of pain passed over her large red face. What if she couldn't prevent McKevitt from choosing Daphne.

Clothes. And looks. On these two things she had pinned her faith. On them her life's ambitions had been built. By then she had achieved the place she now occupied in the sun.

Wasn't it her own looks, her own generous curves, her carefully "touched up" yellow hair that had attracted Old Man Haines in the first place, made him desire her even before his thin, dark-eyed wife was dead? That had turned the stingiest well-to-do orchardist in Santa Clara County into a daddering, old fool?

She stole another look at Daphne—at her flawless skin, her dark satiny hair. . . . oh, what a fool not to see it before. . . .

"That'll be about enough from you!" she cried suddenly, getting to her feet.

Some of his best known works are: "Dance of the Nymphs," in the Louvre, Paris; "Vile d'Avray," in the Metropolitan museum, New York; "Souvenir d'Italie," in Glasgow Art gallery; "Dante and Virgil" in Boston Art museum. Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875, he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with psyllin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year. Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Thirteen Races All Saw
American Colors
Lead the Way

SEVENTY-EIGHT years ago the schooner yacht "America" had sailed across the ocean and being off Britain at the time of the race for the Royal Yacht Squadron cup sailed off the Isle of Wight decided to compete. This was the original "America's Cup" race for the trophy won at that race has since been named for the first winner.

The "America" won by so wide a margin that when the Queen of England, watching the race from a spectator yacht, was asked what yacht was next, she replied, "There is no second." The cup won at this time still reposes in the New York Yacht Club.

The deed of gift provides stringent regulations regarding challenges which shall give ten months' notice naming the days for the proposed races and the name of the owner of the challenging boat which must sail across the ocean to compete.

Thirteen challenges have been made of which Sir Thomas Lipton has made the last four with his series of "Shamrocks." In 1920 the challenge for which was given in 1914, but postponed by the World War. Charles Francis Adams, now Secretary of the Navy, sailed the famous old "Resolute," the American defender. Races had preceded this last one in 1870, 1871, 1876, 1881, 1885, 1886, 1887, 1893, 1895, 1899, 1901 and 1903.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON

Now it seems probable that Sir Thomas will try his luck again in 1930 with a new challenger named "Shamrock V." You certainly have to give the big tea man credit for trying mighty hard. Nothing would bring this ardent yachtsman more satisfaction than bringing the famous cup back to England, but ill luck has dogged his attempts.

HOYT'S COMPOUND MADE ME "NEW"

DECLARES 20 YEAR RESIDENT
OF SPRINGFIELD, OHIO:
SAYS HE IS A CHANGED
PERSON.

MR. ORAN ADAMS

"I am a WELL MAN since taking the Hoyt's Compound and I want to endorse it to all who suffer," said Mr. Adams. "I am 45 years of age and have lived in Springfield, Ohio for the past 20 years. During the last seven years I have been a great sufferer of the stomach and kidney trouble which seemed to grow worse all the time even though I had spent hundreds of dollars trying different kinds of advertised medicines without any results whatever. My stomach always felt as though a large hard lump was inside of it and every time I ate anything it seemed as though the lump would become larger and more painful. Stomach gas would form and push upward against my heart and at times I was hardly able to get my breath. All of my friends and acquaintances know that I have suffered terribly from this affliction and also with bowel trouble as I was continually having pains across my back and shoulders. After trying all of these other medicines without relief I was skeptical about trying anything else but finally when I kept reading endorsements from local people for the Hoyt's Compound, I went and got it and started taking it myself. The first bottle gave me so much relief that I knew at last that I had found a cure and I am still taking it and getting better every day. Every organ in my body seems to be functioning perfectly and my entire system feels better all over. I am able to work without becoming worn out and tired as before. I am now able to eat anything without having those dreadful pains and I can truthfully say that Hoyt's Compound has proved to be the greatest medicine of any I have ever taken. I am now a WELL MAN and want to endorse it to everyone who suffers."

Hoyt's Compound is now being explained every day here in this city at Wilder's Drug Store, and is also sold by leading druggists everywhere.

SPRINGING UPWARDS from the heel of this stocking are two attenuated points.

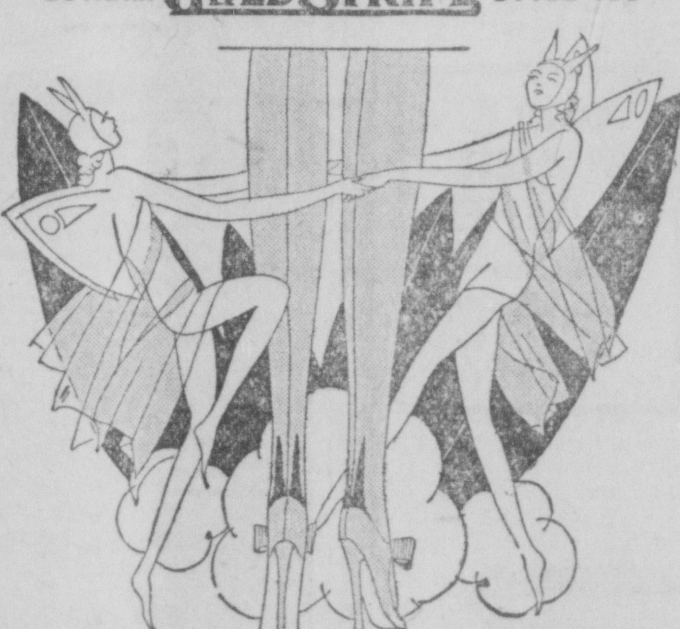

The design is simple . . . modern.

And yet the design lends lightness—has a mysterious sprite-like quality that suggests moonlight nights and strange little folk peering from the shadows.

The cobweb texture of the stocking, too, is in the same mood. Silk extends from top to toe. At the edge is a dainty picot.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Wheat started 1-8c lower to 1c higher in sympathy with strength at Liverpool and moderate offerings. Later commission houses and local started a heavy selling movement and prices dropped to new lows on the crop. Buying power was lacking on the way down. Weather conditions were favorable.
Corn was unchanged to 1-4c higher with a small mixed trade. Oats were 1-8 to 1-4c higher early.

"However, Konjola proved to be a 'different' medicine for it did for me what all the others failed to do. It has brought me relief from my suffering. All the old aches and pains are gone. YOUNG GIANT HURLS NO HIT, NO RUN GAME

Carl Hubbell, 25, Blanks Pittsburgh In Splendidly Pitched Contest.

NEW YORK, May 9.—New York has a new baseball idol today in Carl Hubbell, 25-year-old southpaw of Meeker, Okla., who yesterday joined the blue stocking brigade of big league pitchers by hurling a no-hit, no-run game against the slugging Pittsburgh Pirates.

Hubbell, whose pitching almost won the pennant for the Giants last year, landed in baseball's hall of fame in less than a year after coming to the big league from Beaumont, Tex. His exploit was the first big league no-hit game since Ted Lyons of the White Sox turned the trick against the Red Sox on Aug. 21, 1926, and the first National league no-hit game since Dazzy Vance mesmerized the Phillies on Sept. 13, 1925.

A perfect game, was spoiled when the southpaw walked Adams in the third inning. In the ninth, errors by Fullis and Jackson failed to unnerve Hubbell, even with the dangerous Waner brothers coming up. He struck out Lloyd Waner and then converted Paul's smash into a whirlwind double play, Hubbell to Jackson to Terry. In the past Hubbell frequently has messed up this kind of a play, but he did not fail in his big moment yesterday.

CUBS LEAD LEAGUE
Although the Giants piled up 11 runs, Hubbell bore down all the way. Chick Fullis, Roodie outfielder from Pennsylvania, hit his third home run in as many days. Master Melvin Ott smacked a pair of four-baggers and Cohen also hit for the circuit.

Meanwhile the Chicago Cubs eased themselves onto the league lead, displacing Boston, by trimming Brooklyn again, 4 to 2, while the Braves were taking a 10 to 2 shellacking from the Cardinals. The Cards piled up eight runs in a wild first inning, while Willie Sherdel held the back bay crew to four hits. Boston had been leading the league all season.

Buster Gehrig walloped his seventh homer as the Yankee steam roller crushed the St. Louis Browns, 8 to 1, the sixth straight win for the champions and the fourth successive victory for Pitcher Waite Hoyt.

Jack Quinn and Red Faber, veteran spitball pitchers, failed to go the route as the Athletics, nosed out the White Sox, 5 to 4. Detroit's marked George Uhle's fifth straight win and the Tigers' sixth consecutive victory.

All the knowledge and ability of the aviator is called into play when he undertakes to come to earth. He must remember all he has ever learned, and there are about as many "dos" and "don'ts" for him to follow. There are a thousand things likely to happen when a machine is about to reach land, and the aviator must be prepared to meet any one of these emergencies. It is essential that he should know the exact direction of the wind and make his descent directly into it. It is fatal to stall the engine at this stage of the flight. The gentleness of landing is particularly trying to the beginner.

"NEW KONJOLA JUST WHAT I ALWAYS NEEDED"

LADY, WHO OBTAINED WONDERFUL RELIEF THROUGH THIS NEW MEDICINE, LAUDS ITS POWERS.

MRS. ROSE BIBLE "Konjola surely is a medicine of merit, and it proved to be the remedy I always needed," said Mrs. Rose Bible, 345 North Second street, Coshocton. "I suffered for several years from stomach and kidney troubles, and neuritis. Everything I ate soured in my stomach. My stomach bloated. My kidneys were in bad condition. The neuritis pains were almost unbearable. I was growing discouraged, as I had tried many medicines without success. However, Konjola proved to be a 'different' medicine for it did for me what all the others failed to do. It has brought me relief from my suffering. All the old aches and pains are gone. My kidneys are functioning perfectly. The neuritis pains have left. Now I know why so many people use Konjola the master medicine."

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Hamilton and Ryan drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.
